This can only be met now by landlords and tenants pulling together. I would urge upon all landlords and agents, for the sake of all that is merciful and just, for their own sake and for that of our common country, if they have an honest and industrious tenant, to stick to him, help him, and if it can be avoided, don t take his capital in the form of rent. Remember, if the present race of fammers be ruined, men equally good will not be found. I would say to all tenants, If you have a good landlord, who meets you as far as he can, stick to him, keep the farm up, there is no surer road to ruin than letting a farm down, never let the charge of ingratitude be made against you. If you have a bad landlord, get away from him as soon as you can. The distress this year is abnormal because of the drought, and consequent deficient harvest of last summer, but to-night it will be better to lead the discussion to some practical measures that will help the British farmer, with average seasons, to farm, and live, with the range of prices for his produce that may be expected in the future....
